FBI Continuing Probe
Of 'Paper Empire'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—The justice department said today that Secretary of War Patterson and other top officials will be called to testify against former Rep. Andrew J. May and his co-defendants in the Garsson war profits conspiracy trial.

A spokesman who is actively engaged in prosecution of May, Dr. Henry M. Garsson, Murray Garsson and Joseph F. Freeman declared:

"In order to present the best evidence we will summon the best witnesses."

"These will include the secretary of war, Maj. Gen. William N. Porter, Maj. Gen. Alden N. Waitt, and other high-ranking persons whom May is accused of having approached in his efforts to aid the Garsson companies."

The justice department official added that the evidence which led to indictment of May, the Garsson and Freeman "covered only one phase" of the Garsson munitions empire operations.

He pointed out that the FBI is pressing a vigorous probe into the ramifications of the 78 million dollar combine of which May allegedly was the congressional "guardian angel" in his capacity as chairman of the house military affairs committee.

The official observed that the incident deals principally with payments made to the Cumberland Lumber company, allegedly set up "in order to conceal said payments to Andrew J. May."

May, the Garssons and Freeman are at liberty under $2,000 bond each pending the trial, set by Chief Justice Bolitha J. Laws of the U. S. district court for March 19.

Daniel Anderson of May's legal staff said the erstwhile powerful politician would return to his Prestonburg, Ky., home "within the next day or so" to await the trial date.

Although a severe heart ailment, attested by his physician, prevented May from answering a subpoena to appear before the senate war investigating committee last summer, the Kentuckian showed no signs of physical distress in his court appearance for the arraignment yesterday.

PERON ORDERS

SALE OF LAND

HELD BY NAZIS

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 25—A decree by President Juan Peron today ordered sale of all properties in Argentina which formerly belonged to Axis nationals.

Peron based his decree, issued last night, on obligations incurred in the Chapultepec agreement. This pact called on Latin-American nations to eliminate enemy possessed economic influence.

Approximately 60 Argentine firms are expected to be liable for sale under the decree. Estimated value of the properties, to be established by a board of experts, is 100-million dollars.

WHEN ARMY MAIL
PLANE CRASHES

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 25 — A United States army mail plane overshot Argentinia airfield today and crashed in flames, injuring all seven officers and men aboard.

The Dakota plane was enroute from Floyd Bennett airfield, Brooklyn, N. Y., to Argentinia. After passing over the field, the plane turned back for another landing and plunged to the ground.

The crewmembers were pulled from the wreckage and the flames extinguished.

Tags To Help Raise Funds
To Fight Polio

Tags were being sold on Circleville streets, Saturday, in connection with the annual "March of Dimes" campaign to raise funds with which to fight infantile paralysis.

Members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary were selling the tags.

Declaring that contributions have lagged somewhat since the drive began Jan. 15, Don Henkle, general chairman for the campaign in Pickaway county, urged residents of Circleville and throughout the county to contribute generously.

Henkle said no collection figures have as yet been tabulated. The goal in the drive is $5,000 as compared with the $2,800 quota in 1946.

Citing the spread of polio throughout the nation Henkle appealed to Circlevilleans and Pickaway countians to "double" their last year's donation to the battle against the dread disease.

Coin boxes have been placed in public buildings, offices, and stores throughout the city and county for the convenience of contributors and everyone has been asked to drop coins into these boxes.

The campaign is part of a nation-wide drive sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis with a national goal of 24 million dollars. Edward Ames heads the "March of Dimes" campaign group in Circleville, and Mrs. Harriet Henness is campaign chairman for the remainder of the county. School children and many civic and fraternal groups are co-operating in the drive.

Movie theaters started Friday night showing trailers relative to the campaign and permitting women volunteers to collect donations from theater patrons. This will be continued through Jan. 30.

The "March of Dimes" campaign is scheduled to end the night of Jan. 31.

BRITAIN LIKES
STALIN STAND
ON AGREEMENTSoviet Premier May Be Asked
What Treaty Provisions
Are Worrying Him

LONDON, Jan. 25 — Britain was considering today asking Premier Joseph Stalin what reservations in the 20-year Anglo-Soviet treaty are worrying him.

A foreign office spokesman said the next logical step was to ask the Soviet premier which points he had in mind last night when he notified Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin that their elimination might permit extension of the pact, possibly for 50 years.

The spokesman said Stalin should be questioned on these reservations with a view of considering them.

The London Evening Star commented on Stalin's action which diplomatic circles hailed as clearing up misunderstanding over Britain's sentiments on the treaty.

It advanced the idea that Moscow wants a wider pact to provide mutual assistance in case of trouble "from any quarter," and not only from Germany and its satellites as provided in the present treaty.

Informed quarters, meanwhile, stated that Britain did not agree with the Soviet viewpoint that an offer to exchange officers with the Russian army indicated preparations for war.

They added that instead, such an exchange should be viewed as collaboration of peace and Britain is anxious that all the allies should so cooperate.

London observers were particularly gratified by that portion of Stalin's note which indicated acceptance, at least in principle, of the British proposal to extend the Anglo-Soviet pact from its 20 years to 50 years.

Living Conditions For Miners Are Good

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union stood on the sidelines today while a government-industry clash brewed over living conditions among the nation's 400,000 soft coal miners.

Anticipating a critical Navy report now being prepared, the bituminous coal institute issued an elaborate, picture-filled brochure challenging charges that "poor living conditions are characteristic of coal mining communities." The report said:

"Surveys of medical and hospital care, sanitary and housing conditions, education and recreation in the coal mining regions can be of public service only if, through them, the public obtains the real facts in their true perspective."

"Such surveys could help to explode the myth that the 400,000 workers in America's coal mines slave long hours for starvation wages, and that they and their families exist in misery, deprived of the decencies of life—a fable often repeated, but wholly and viciously false."

"Poor living conditions are the exception—not the rule. They are not characteristic of the coal industry." (Continued on Page Two)

The announcement of casualties by airport officials said five others were injured.

The plane, a charter craft enroute from the airport near London to Rhodesia, reached mid-air before plummeting to earth where it crashed into a parked airliner.

Both planes immediately burst into flames.

Several children and Sisters of Mercy were among the 18 passengers aboard the plane.

Four of the persons were rescued by airport workers.

Others were trapped in the flaming wreckage.

Fire-fighting apparatus rushed onto the field and immediately began battling the blaze.

EXTENSION OF WAGE CONTRACT
BY CIO WATCHED

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 25—The extension of "big steel's" collective bargaining contract by the United Steel Workers was the basis today for speculation in labor circles that other large CIO unions plan to follow a similar pattern.

Labor leaders attached considerable significance to a secret meeting in Pittsburgh between President Walter Reuther of the Automobile Workers, President Albert J. Fitzgerald of the United Electrical Workers, and CIO President Philip Murray, who also heads the steel workers.

While officials of the "big three" labor unions declined comment on their meeting, union chiefs said they believed Reuther and Fitzgerald were summoned into the special meeting to discuss contract extension in the automobile and electrical industry.

The steel workers union extended their collective bargaining contract with the five U. S. steel subsidiaries until April 30.

CIO PRESIDENT PHILIP MURRAY, left, and John A. Stephens, right, vice president of U. S. Steel, are shown in Pittsburgh discussing their agreement to extend the collective bargaining negotiations for the CIO-United Steelworkers and "Big Steel" until April 30. Due to terminate Feb. 15, the extension of the bargaining, requested by Stephens, will "provide both sides more time for discussion", according to Murray.

Holland Demands Six
'Pockets' From Germany

LONDON, Jan. 25—Dispatches from The Hague revealed today that Holland has demanded six "pockets" of German territory so that The Netherlands frontiers may be straightened.

According to Reuters, the demands were contained in a new memorandum presented to the deputies of the big four foreign ministers, now meeting in London.

Meantime, South Africa favored establishment of the pre-annexed borders for Austria. It warned of "continual friction" and perhaps disappearance of Austria as a sovereign state unless it is set on its feet by the peace treaty.

The South African note urged that the Austrian treaty provide for the evacuation of occupation forces from Austria within 60 days after the peace pact is signed.

The six pockets—claimed on historic, economic and geographical grounds—ranged from the north-eastern frontier of Holland to the point where Belgium, The Netherlands and Germany all meet.

In order, from north to south, they included:

1—The country at Bentheim, jutting some 15 miles into Dutch territory;

2—The so-called pocket at Vredend;

3—The Anhoit pocket;

4—Rectification of the area near the old duchy of Cleves, and the towns of Cleves and Emmerich on both sides of the Rhine near where it enters Holland;

5—Modifications in the neighborhood of Roermond and Sittard, near the three-nation frontier; and

6—Change: around Hertogenrade and Aachen, where American armored columns first penetrated German territory during the war.

The memorandum, as quoted in the dispatch, declared:

"These modifications are in agreement with the historical development of the frontier and aimed only at rectifying former mistakes and omissions, or are required by new factors which have come into play."

'Red' Charges

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—Secretary of State George C. Marshall's announced intention to attend the "big four" foreign ministers' Moscow meeting was interpreted today to mean that he will seek a showdown with Russia on outstanding issues.

These issues, outside the drafting of the German and Austrian peace treaties, include:

1. Processes for arriving at a peace treaty with Japan, which has been placed in the background by United States action in seeking a settlement in Europe first.

2. The question of removals of Japanese heavy industry from Manchuria, estimated to be valued at 100 million dollars. The U. S. maintains these should be a part of reparations payable chiefly to China, the main sufferer from Japanese aggression.

3. Settlement of the dispute over Korea. Although both Russia and the United States are pledged to give that country economic and political independence, no progress has been made due to Russia's boycott of conferences in Seoul.

4. Repatriation of Japanese war prisoners from Russia. These were removed from Manchuria after the Soviet's belated entry into the far eastern war.

Jap Treaty Earlier?

Moreover, since Japan has a functioning government, many believed that the Japanese treaty might come to the front earlier should the German treaty be stymied in Moscow.

Marshall is known to feel that the major clash between American and Russian interests impends in the Far East. Therefore, it was believed that he might seek to promote a settlement there first.

Marshall's preoccupation with the Far East was indicated during his second day in office. John Carter Vincent, chief of the far eastern division, was the first state department official with whom he conferred.

The new secretary of state also may be asked to reveal to congress his plans for reorganizing the state department in the light (Continued on Page Two)

Other members of the committee are Frank Wantz, chairman, Dr. William Herbert, Robert Elisea, L. Williams and Harold Clifton.

The committee announced that the program is aimed to encourage safe practices and habits both at home and in the everyday activities of life.

The announcement said: "The fact that during the four years of war more than three times as many persons were victims of traffic accidents as there were total war casualties is proof enough that accidents are probably the No. 1 killer and crippler of the nation."

"From Pearl Harbor to V-J Day the traffic total reached 3,394,000 dead and injured. Our battlefield sacrifice was 1,070,524. Now, with gas rationing gone and speed laws relaxed, accidents have increased 35 per cent. You, or members of your family, may be among the next victims of careless or incompetent driving."

"Since the big problem is the driver, because so much depends on him or her, driver education should be first on the list when fighting this problem. There are millions of drivers. Many have some deficiency which makes them unfit. Many persons are poor drivers simply because of lack of training and experience. With sufficient knowledge of the requirements and enough practice to develop the essential coordination of mind and muscle, their deficiencies can be corrected."

A business meeting in the home of Circleville Lodge No. 77, is set for 2 p. m. Sunday. While it is in session visiting ladies will be entertained at cards by Circleville ladies. At 5:30 p. m. Sunday a dinner will be served.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—Secretary of State George C. Marshall's announced intention to attend the "big four" foreign ministers' Moscow meeting was interpreted today to mean that he will seek a showdown with Russia on outstanding issues.

These issues, outside the drafting of the German and Austrian peace treaties, include:

1. Processes for arriving at a peace treaty with Japan, which has been placed in the background by United States action in seeking a settlement in Europe first.

2. The question of removals of Japanese heavy industry from Manchuria, estimated to be valued at 100 million dollars. The U. S. maintains these should be a part of reparations payable chiefly to China, the main sufferer from Japanese aggression.

3. Settlement of the dispute over Korea. Although both Russia and the United States are pledged to give that country economic and political independence, no progress has been made due to Russia's boycott of conferences in Seoul.

4. Repatriation of Japanese war prisoners from Russia. These were removed from Manchuria after the Soviet's belated entry into the far eastern war.

Japan Treaty Earlier?
Moreover, since Japan has a functioning government, many believed that the Japanese treaty might come to the front earlier should the German treaty be stymied in Moscow.

Marshall is known to feel that the major clash between American and Russian interests impends in the Far East. Therefore, it was believed that he might seek to promote a settlement there first.

Marshall's preoccupation with the Far East was indicated during his second day in office. John Carter Vincent, chief of the far eastern division, was the first state department official with whom he conferred.

The new secretary of state also may be asked to reveal to congress his plans for reorganizing the state department in the light

LONDON, Jan. 25—A Reuters dispatch from Helsinki said today that Finland confirmed officially that negotiations are underway with Russia concerning German assets in Finland.

Dispatches reaching Stockholm several days ago said the Russians had asked permission to buy half interest in all Finnish government-owned joint stock companies out of the German assets in Finland.

These reports, which credited "reliable sources," said the Russians also have demanded revaluation of these German assets in Finland at current prices to compensate them for depreciation of the Finnish mark.

According to Reuters, an official Finnish spokesman said that a Finnish economic commission is carrying on the negotiations with a Russian delegation, but added that the talks were only in the preliminary stages.

Reuters said the Finn spokesman added that the negotiations were being carried out in a "friendly spirit," and that premature reports of the Russian claims were "exaggerated and inaccurate."

BRITISH LABOR GOVERNMENT IS FACING TROUBLE

LONDON, Jan. 25—The London Daily Graphic declared Friday that anxiety over the way Britain's affairs are being handled is growing throughout the country and may lead to the most critical debate in parliament's history.

According to the conservative publication, concern over the government's handling of the economic and food situation was heightened recently by:

1—The "disquieting" picture of the country's industrial position as given in the "white paper" released earlier in the week, and

2—Continued prospects of restricted food supplies.

Meantime 1,600 dustmen in the socialist stronghold of Glasgow completed the 25th day of a strike for higher wages, by issuing manifesto severely criticizing the socialist council.

Three hundred of the Glasgow strikers paraded through the refuse-littered streets, and demonstrated outside the city hall, where they shouted:

God's Gift To Man

According to the creation in Genesis, God provided that "the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life." He directed that they should "be fruitful and multiply and fill the waters in the sea." Among these moving creatures is the lowly oyster.

The oyster shells shown at this Tide-water shucking plant number in the millions. This plant, which is but one of many to be seen along our coastal waters, has furnished a livelihood for hundreds of people, and a bountiful supply of food for many thousands more.

This is a striking illustration of the fact that our Creator overlooked nothing in making provision for human need and welfare. Back of every material good is the bountiful hand of God.

Should not such consideration for our needs move us to deepest gratitude?

"Enter into his gates with thanksgiving and into his courts with praise. Be thankful unto Him and bless His name."

—Psalm 100:4.

THE CHAPEL OF SWEAT TOPIC AT EUB CHURCH

"The Chapel of Sweat," is the sermon theme of the Rev. Carl L. Wilson for the 10:30 a. m. divine worship service at the First Evangelical United Brethren church Sunday. This message is the third of a sermon series on the general theme, "The Church in Action." A scriptural foundation may be read from St. Matthew 26:36-46.

"Be Still My Heart" by W. G. Wagborne is the anthem chosen for the choir by the director, Charles Kirkpatrick. Montford Kirkwood Jr. will sing the bass solo.

"Sarabande" by Bach, "Midday Silence" by Jensen and "Postlude" by Rinck are the organ selections arranged by Miss Lucille Kirkwood.

In the Children's chapel at 10:30 o'clock, Mrs. Montford Kirkwood, Jr. will direct the junior church program. She will be assisted by Mrs. Carl L. Wilson and Miss Gladys Noggle. Patty Nau is the pianist. Marilyn Sowers will read the scripture. JoAnn Kerr will play the piano offertory. Marsha Morgan will sing the solo. The order of service includes an introit, offertory response and a choral response for the benediction. A mixed choir is a feature of the service. The entire service is arranged with the juvenile appeal. Children from four to twelve years of age participate.

At 6 o'clock in the Sunday school room, the Youth Fellowship will be in charge of Mary Ann Woodward.

The evening evangelistic song service will be led by Montford Kirkwood, Jr. with the pastor delivering the sermon on the theme, "Follow Your Leader," from the scriptural directive in Psalms 78:53.

"Our Spiritual Mobilization Campaign is bringing results in more faithful and larger attendance and in increased interest. We still have a warm welcome for visitors and friends," says the Rev. Mr. Wilson.

Jesus Crosses Racial Boundaries

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 26 is John 4:1-42, the Memory Verse being Acts 10:38, "Jesus of Nazareth... went about doing good, for God was with Him.")

"WHEN THEREFORE the Lord knew how the Pharisees had heard that Jesus had baptized and baptized more disciples than John, he left Judea and departed again into Galilee. And he must needs go through Samaria."

He need not have gone through Samaria. Many Jews went the long way, on their way from Judea to Galilee, crossing over the Jordan and going north on the east side of the river. Jesus, however, took the shorter route through this city of a people whom the Jews despised. The Samaritans were a mixed race, descendants of Israelites and Assyrians.

"Then He cometh to a city of Samaria, which is called Sychar, near to the parcel of ground that Jacob gave to his son Joseph." This well is still there, and is said to be one of the few spots that we know to be hallowed by the Saviour's presence.

Jesus was weary from "His journey, and while the disciples went into the city for food, He rested at this well."

"There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water: Jesus saith to her, Give me drink." The woman was amazed to be addressed by a Jew who ordinarily had no dealings with Samaritans. She asked Him, "How is it that Thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria?"

Ask for Living Water

Jesus answered her, "If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of Him, and He would have given thee living water."

Puzzled, the woman said, "Sir, Thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep; from whence then hast Thou that living water?" In the 19th century this well was found to be 75 feet deep, and 9 feet in diameter.

Jesus answered was, "Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again: But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

Not understanding that Jesus was speaking of spiritual things, the woman was still confused, and asked the Lord to give her this new kind of water, which would save her from making trips to the well.

Jesus told her to call her husband, and when she said she had no husband, Jesus said that was true; that she had had five husbands, and the man with whom she was now living was not her husband. This knowledge of her life bewildered her still more, and she said she saw that He was a prophet. Then, possibly to change the subject, she said, "Our fathers worshipped in this mountain; and ye say, that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship." This mountain was Gerizim, sacred to Samaritans, which overlooked the plain where Sychar was situated.

Jesus said, "Woman, believe Me, the hour cometh, when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet at Jerusalem, worship the Father. But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth; for the Father seeketh such to worship Him."

Coming of Messiah

The woman then spoke of the coming of a Messiah who "when He is come, will tell us all things. Jesus said unto her, I that speak unto thee am He."

The disciples came back from their mission and marveled that Jesus talked to the woman, but did not question Him about it. She left and the disciples offered Jesus food, but He answered them, "I have meat to eat that ye know not of," which puzzled them. It is one of the saddest things to this writer about Jesus' life on earth, that even those who were closest to Him, loyal and faithful as they were, did not understand Him, even when He was trying to prepare them for His death.

In the meantime, the woman had gone to the city and told her family and friends all about her meeting with this Man who had said He was the Messiah, and about His knowledge of her life. Many went with her to see Jesus with their own eyes and to hear Him talk.

Many of the Samaritans believed on Him because of the woman's testimony. "He told me all that ever I did. And many more believed because of His own word."

They pleased with Jesus to stay with them, and He tarried two days. Thus Jesus started the work of carrying the Message of the Gospel to others than the Jewish people, which Paul continued.

The Samaritans said to the woman, after hearing and seeing Jesus, "Now we believe, not because of thy saying; for we have heard Him ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Saviour of the whole world."

SLEEPING RUSSIA

RUSSIA seems to be the world's problem child. You never know where she is, or what she is going to do, or what she has on her mind, or who will be the next subject of her devious operations. Her attitude toward other nations in any given situation may not be hostile at all, but merely a method summed up by American marines as the best way to get along with women—"treat 'em rough and tell 'em nothing."

It seems to work, after a fashion. But this is a fashion which would never be recommended in our own business or professional life, and is of very doubtful profit in international life.

It is strange, too, that Russia should maintain such an attitude. The Russians individually are generally reported, by outsiders who really get acquainted with them, as a gentle and courteous people. It seems as if the masters of Russia—and Russia has always had masters—still strive deliberately, as has been done for centuries, to keep them from knowledge of the outer world. If so, it is surely time for Russia somehow to be awakened from her sleep.

HE KNOWS BETTER NOW

TRUTH should not be spoken to strangers, says an old Oriental proverb. William H. Haskell of New York City must be wondering whether this applies to him.

Mr. Haskell is, or was, an employe of a Wall Street brokerage firm. When summoned on the jury investigating the football bribery cases, and asked if had any prejudices, he said, "I'm in the gambling business myself." His firm did not think this funny, and discharged him. Also the New York Stock Exchange struck him off its list of registered representatives.

This seems rather severe for what was presumably an attempt at humor. Could it be that his joke struck too closely home?

EYES FOR SALE

SURELY one of the strangest facts in our modern civilization is what seems to be a dawning traffic in human eyes. A mother of 12 children (Mrs. Marie Didion of Edinboro, Pa.) has offered to sell an eye to the highest bidder so that her children may have "proper food and a good home."

Needless to say, those children should be provided, and probably will be, with the home and the food that they need, without the sacrifice. But isn't the mere suggestion of such procedure a rather appalling revelation of the world in which we live?

Man's last great conquest may be control of the weather.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—General Marshall raised his right hand, and pleasantly stepped into the bedlam of international politics as if he expected to enjoy it. A cool diplomat, standing at the fringe of the oath ceremonies, observed half to himself that the director of the war armies was entering a new type of warfare which promised the greatest challenge to reason and reasonableness, to simple common sense and primary arithmetic, that has confronted the ingenuity of modern man.

Look behind the French government strivings for freedom for the point. The premiership went to the only political party which had lost in the last elections, the only paper to lose ground (Socialist Ramadier.) The Communists and anti-Communists just about held their own, neither being able to acquire a majority, so the government went to a compromise leadership demanded by the Communists. The outcome appeared plainly to any outsider such a direct challenge to popular will as to suggest it was conceived by those who may have wished to defeat rather than meet popular demand.

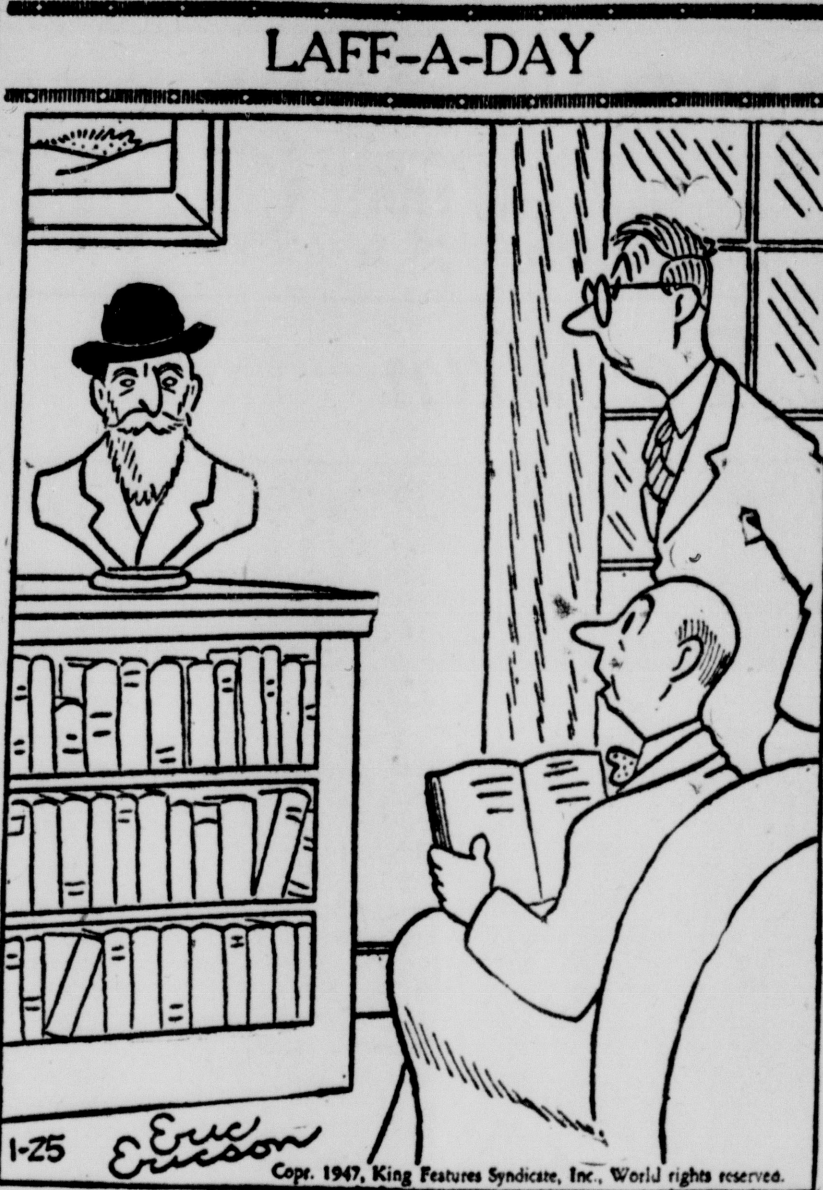

Now Ramadier immediately planned to give to Communists the cabinet post—incalculable as it sounds—of national defense. The Communist party is dominated by a foreign power, as everyone knows. The plan therefore primarily had the implication of delivering leadership of the army to devotees of a foreign power, or permitting national defense to be operated by domestic agents of a foreign revolutionary movement opposed to the very strivings of the French for freedom.

An American counterpart would be for Marshall to deliver the American army to Communist leadership. Of course the proposal was then foolishly being contrived by Ramadier to give an appearance of disbelief to what he proposed to do, by adding three undersecretaries of other parties—under the Communist leadership, mind you—to the national defense ministry. There was nothing deep-dyed or doubtful about this understanding of the matter. The only thing deep-dyed about it was that authorities did not seem to want to talk about it aloud or analyze it truthfully in public. Everyone wanted to pretend it was not so.

Now Marshall has nothing directly to do with the corruption of French popular will, but he will have something to do about the Spitzbergen base matter which is on the same plane. The Soviet press (government) is currently whipping the United States with adjectives for objecting to Russian claims for an airbase from Norway on the top world arcs across which any directed missiles would fly to our land (3000 air miles to Pennsylvania and Ohio, they say.) Pretending to be reasonable, it accuses the United States of having taken bases for itself in the Pacific, thus planning to embarrass Marshall.

A friend of mine was saying the other day the commonest yet most misused phrase in all languages is "I think." People say it, but do not do it. The slightest effort toward reasonable thought on this matter must show that the American bases were those taken only from a defeated enemy, Japan, while Russia is trying to take one from an ally, Norway.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A POST-MORTEM EVIL
MANY PLAYERS of duplicate bridge have developed a very bad habit which they practice during the post-mortem after a deal has been played. It consists of taking some other player's hand out of the board—usually their partner's—in order to figure out something in connection with the bidding or play. In doing so, they risk mixing up the hands, thus jeopardizing the rights of others in the game. Sooner or later the Laws will have to legislate more strongly against this growing evil, often perpetrated by veterans who should know better.

Let's take a look at the board," suggested a third. "May be the cards got mixed up." Examination proved that he was right, and ultimately the culprits who did the mixing were located. East had suggested that his not vulnerable partner should have made a not-vulnerable psychic double or bid after South's powerful 3-Clubs, in order to impede the strong opponents. Each then took his partner's hand out of the board to see what the other held. Then—of course—the hands got put back into the wrong pockets. When they were interchanged, the club K became a winner. Penalties punished that pair for mixing the board, but they were inadequate.

scoring was completed, it developed that some of the declarers had taken only 12 tricks and others got 13.

"You can't possibly take all the tricks on it," said one of the grand slam bidders who was set when the club finesse failed. "Certainly you can," objected one of the others, "because the club finesse works."

SYNOPSIS

When Cliff Bogard accepted the U. S. Rubber Division's dangerous assignment of opening up virgin rubber plantations in New Dixie, South America, he was surprised to find that the person Washington sent down to aid him in getting the option was Janet Norman, a tall, bronze-haired beauty. However, she knew the territory, having been brought up there by her late father, beloved doctor of the community. New Dixie, a kind of feudal colony resulting from the migration of Americans before the Civil War, disliked outside interference, as did their rebellious natives. Cliff is angered when Janet insists they start immediately for New Dixie, despite the fact that only three weeks before the authorities there had refused Cliff an option and ordered him to leave. Lack of gas forces their plane to land near the jungle home of elderly Wade Carroll, whose occupation is capturing wild animals for zoos. Surprised and pleased to see Janet again, he warns them that the Blacklanders are in the vicinity. No one knows the identity of their new leader, but the Dixie vagabonds have sworn to capture him and Vicente, his chief lieutenant. Lilli, attractive young native girl whom Wade adopted when her parents died, has known the latter since childhood. Wade offers to accompany them to New Dixie, and while he prepares horses for the journey, Lilli takes Cliff to see the menagerie. While there Vicente rides out of the jungle and angrily warns Cliff to leave.

riders sat their horses, watching, tense with expectancy. For barely a heartbeat that silent tableau endured, then suddenly it was shattered. A figure swept past Cliff, and Lilli, with small hands clenched, frowned up into Vicente's face.

"Vin, you quit this." The slant eyes were snapping. "You stop your bullyin', hear me!"

For a second there was no response, then to Cliff's astonishment, a look of reluctant submission came to Vicente's face, and very slowly he put Pablo on the ground.

More like an irate sparrow than ever, the outraged pilot straightened his tie, but Vicente had wholly forgotten him; he turned to Cliff, and once again the big Blacklander's eyes were flinty.

"Come with me," he mounted his horse, and Cliff followed him back to Wade's.

The place was swarming. Horsemen, tanned and lean, crowded the clearing—a strangely assorted band, of all ages, some scarcely more than boys, others grizzled and wrinkled with years of tropical sun. Most of them seemed to be American, but in some the black eyes and high-arched noses told of Spanish blood. They were clustered in front of Wade's shack, and now at Vicente's approach they moved aside, and Cliff saw Janet Norman in the doorway.

Vicente saw her too, and with a quick exclamation he stopped. plainly the presence of a woman came as an unexpected complication. For a moment he gazed down upon her, then said to Cliff, "You and your wife—"

But Janet interrupted him with vehemence. "I'm not his wife. I'm Janet Norman. I—"

"Norman!" Sharply Vicente echoed the word in angry disbelief, then, "Are you Dr. Roberto Norman's daughter?"

"Yes, of course."

To Cliff it seemed that a look, a flash of sudden comprehension, passed over the Blacklander's face, and still holding her with his eyes he murmured, "So you are Roberto Norman's daughter."

"Did you know my father?" Blood had surged to Janet's cheeks, and she spoke the words as if speech had become difficult.

"Once—long ago." This time the silence grew long, then at last he asked, "What do you want here, senorita?"

"I am going to New Dixie."

Perplexed, like one dealing with some unaccustomed problem, Vicente dismounted, and walking a few paces away, stood with his back toward her, lost in speculation. At last he turned. "Why should I stop you? Go where you wish. But this man—he comes with us. We do not want him in the Blacklands."

The circle of riders had begun closing about Cliff, but Janet raised her hand.

"Wait!" She spoke the word breathlessly, as if appalled at her own temerity. "He is not going to the Blacklands—he is going to New Dixie with me."

Vicente frowned. "Why do you lie to me, senorita? This man is here to take rubber from the Blacklands plantation."

"But first he must get permis-

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

This nation cannot even get any bases from allies like the British or French who have islands in the Pacific, or in Iceland where Communists objected. A counterpart of the wholly ridiculous Russian position would be if we demanded bases from the British and belligerently pressed such a claim in violation of treaties (Spitzbergen is neutral ground by the treaty which Russia is trying to break.) Not only that, but Russia actually owns islands nearby which could be used as bases (and perhaps are.) You can write your own conclusion as to what the incongruous Russian position indicates as to her state of mind now and hereafter.

Practically everything else Marshall is facing is on the same level of intelligence. The Polish election last Sunday was such a travesty on the indispensable basic purpose of elections—for people freely to express their will—that the state department has formally protested. The Polish anti-Communists planned to go to their supreme court and the accounts of all trained American news observers ridiculed the election. I would not bother reading what Stalin is supposed to have told Elliott Roosevelt, since I read Elliott's earlier attack on the American embassy in Moscow or its officials. But I guess this is not my real reason. I simply know that what Stalin may tell an American newsman is not what Russia does.

The same point I am making—of the difficulty of dealing internationally in bedlam—has even displayed itself behind the news from Britain. An official note was sent from Whitehall to Moscow denying an accusation in the Moscow press (government) that Britain was severing her mutual peace pact with the Soviets. A note was sent to deny a press dispatch!

If Marshall meets this situation with customary military training inspirations, he will probably do a defense job primarily at the outset. He will first contrive adequate diplomatic defenses against this sort of attack.

Opinions expressed by the writer in the column are the views of the author and not necessarily those of the Cincinnati Herald.

B-W FIVE TAKES OVER LEAD IN OHIO CIRCUIT

By International News Service
Baldwin - Wallace college sat atop the Ohio Conference pack today following a thrilling 69-67 victory last night over Akron, previously unbeaten in conference play.

It was B-W's fifth league triumph without a loss.

Findlay college, idle last night, has a chance to record its fifth straight in the conference tonight at Heidelberg.

The Oilers currently lead the statewide standings with nine wins and three setbacks.

In other contests last night, Bowling Green racked up its fourth straight and 17th success of the season with a 65-47 decision over Ohio U.; Marietta defeated Denison, 56-38; Otterbein whipped Kenyon, 66 to 56; Wilberforce piled up a 92-43 count on Rio Grande, and Ohio Wesleyan defeated a Hawaiian All-Star team, 78 to 48.

Tonight, Cincinnati seeks its tenth victory in 15 games at the University of Louisville, while Akron attempts to reenter the win column against John Carroll.

Other games: Bowling Green vs. Dayton; Ohio Wesleyan at Akron; Goodyear, Capital at Ohio Northern; Oberlin vs. Mt. Union; Wooster at Ashland; Western Reserve vs. Case; Xavier vs. Kentucky, and Toledo at Detroit.

Ashville Cops 30-29 Win; Monroe, Scioto, Perry, Saltcreek Are Victors

Ashville kept its Pickaway county league record perfect Friday night by the margin of one point, defeating Williamsport on the Ashville floor 30-29.

In other games Monroe margined Pickaway 32-27; Scioto walloped Jackson 64-15; Saltcreek downed Walnut 45-31 and Perry defeated Darby 82-19.

Ashville led by a small margin most of the way, but a determined Williamsport rally in the last four minutes almost netted a victory. With seconds to go a shot was missed that would have won the game for Williamsport. Ashville was behind 4-8 the first quarter but led 14-12 at the half and 23-20 at the end of the third period. Ashville won at the foul line, making good four of eight chances while Williamsport made three of eight.

COL. J. A. STARK, 37TH DIVISION CHIEF OF STAFF

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 25—Col. Julius A. Stark, postmaster of Wooster and veteran of 36 years in the Ohio National Guard, was appointed today as chief of staff of the reorganized 37th Division.

Maj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber, commanding general of the ONG division, announced the appointment.

Colonel Stark enlisted as a private in the guard in 1911, served on the Mexican border in 1916 and became a second lieutenant overseas with the 156th infantry regiment of the 37th division.

Between wars, he served as supply chief of the division's 73rd infantry brigade. When World War II broke out, he went overseas in 1942 and served as supply chief of the XIV corps in the Pacific. He was later promoted to chief of staff of the corps.

Just before leaving service last March 15, the colonel was assistant training director at the officers' candidate school at Ft. Benning, Ga.

representative of comparative network program talent popularity.

Pollers phone 1,380 homes every half hour; in a year they make more than 5,000,000 calls.

Now that we know what we're talking about, here's the latest Hooper report.

Out of each hundred homes called, 34.6 had their radios on. This, says Mr. Hooper, is almost an all-time record. The only time there were more radios in operation was during the several months after Pearl Harbor.

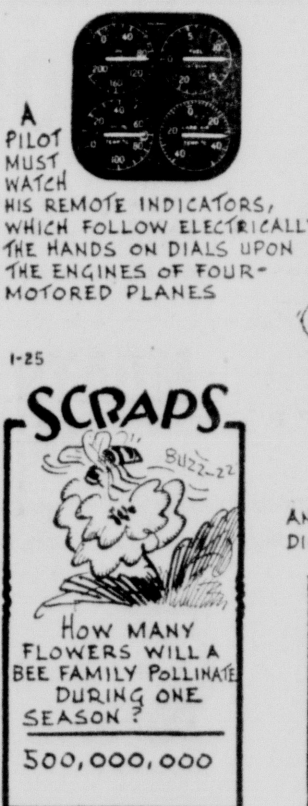

Bob Hope and Fibber McGee and Molly topped the evening listening scale with a rating of 30.2 each (meaning that 30.2 out of 100 homes had their radios tuned to these programs. The fraction is one of those things that comes from making averages).

Daytime listeners favored the soap serials in nine out of ten top listings. The only outsider was "Breakfast in Hollywood."

But one never greets a radio personality with a cheery "hello and how is your Hooper?"

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—Radio has a special brand of lingo all its own which would confound even the experts at jabberwocky. (Jabberwocky is a special brand of teen age lingo that would confound even the experts at Esperanto).

Popularly bandied about more than any other catch-phrase of the airwaves is a vague reference to "Hooper." It is only fair that the public know why tradespeople and comedians quiver like a weather graph when Hooper is mentioned.

Essentially, a hoopering, often abbreviated affectionately to Hooper, is a measurement of the popularity of a radio program compared with other programs heard at the same time.

A theater manager knows when there are too many vacant seats scattered about the house and when box office receipts aren't fattening the pocketbook that the show is a flop. Radio has no way of knowing a flop when the public hears it. The click of a dial doesn't register in a broadcasting studio.

Kate Smith, whose down-to-earth commentary, "Kate Smith Speaks," is heard weekdays over CBS at noon, often complimented for her ability to make people see clearly the value and beauty of the American way of life. Her program is one of radio's outstanding "mail-pullers."

And so Mr. C. E. Hooper, who is a man and not a mechanical tabulator has for 12 years provided a method of testing the relative popularity of programs and their stars.

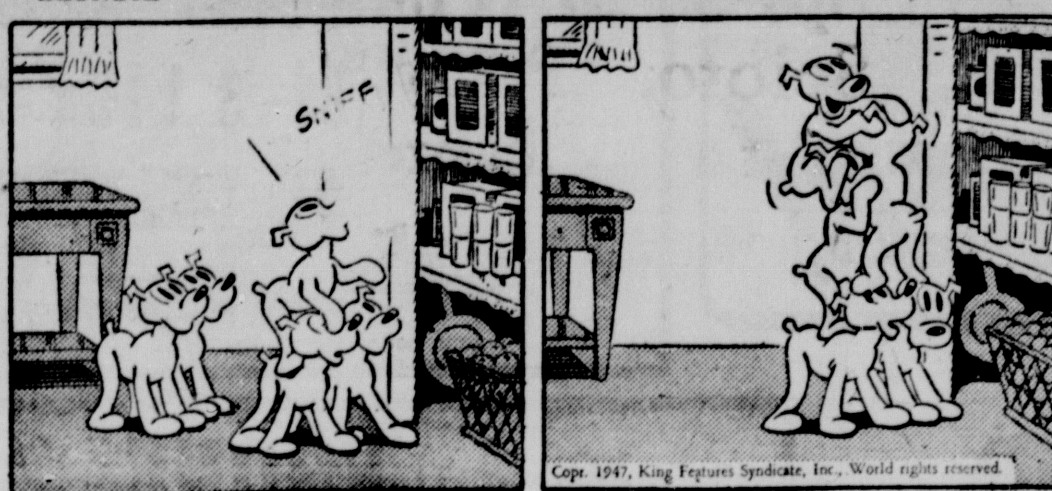

This is the way it's done . . .

In 33 cities, scattered all over the country, Hooper pollers telephone homes and ask such questions as . . . what program are you listening to, and, how many people are there at home now. Each city in which phone polling is done has an ABC, CBS, MBS, and NBC station so that the listener has a choice of any of the major networks.

The fact that the radio happened to be tuned to a certain program at the home called doesn't necessarily mean the family liked the program, nor even that anyone was listening. It indicates only that the radio dial was set on one station.

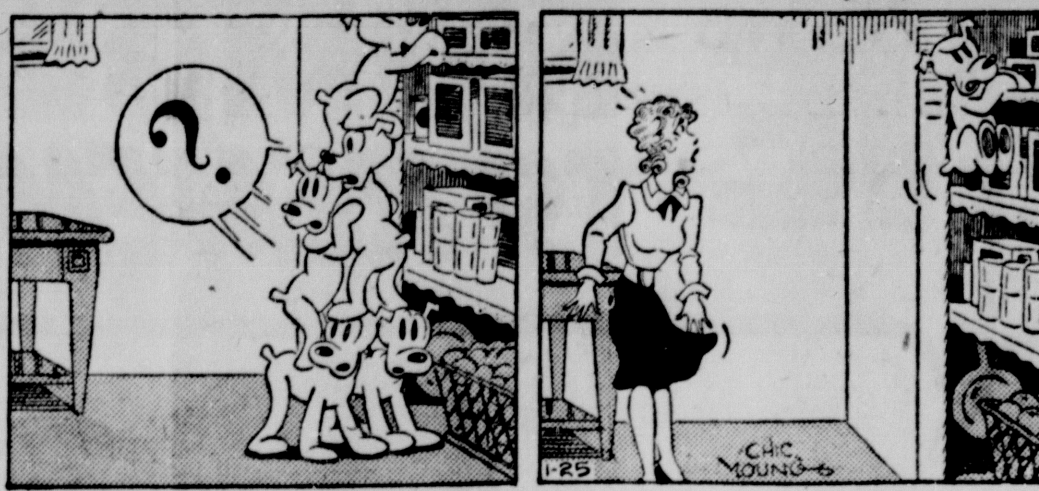

Mr. Hooper feels, however, that after many years of experience and cross sampling "network hooperings" may be accepted as representative of comparative network program talent popularity.
